and a shock to all. Only a few minutes before his death Mr. Worden had been talking with neighbors who had called. After they had gone out, J. A. Pooler, After they had gone out, J. A. Pooler, who was staying with him, started to get his medicine as it was time for it, but hearing a peculiar noise turned back. Mr. Worden threw up his hands, and was gone almost instantly. A physician was hastily summoned, but death came before he could get there.

Mr. Worden was born in Hinsdale, Feb. 1840, was a son of the late Kimball Worden and a direct lineal descendant from Peter Worden, one of the early English settlers in the section of Cape Cod. When 16 years of age he began work in the Halle woolen mills, where he continued four years. In '61 he enlisted in Berdan's saarpshooters, but as he soon became seriously ill, he was returned home. Later Mr. Worden went to War-saw, Ill., where he was employed as foreman in the finishing room in a mill.

With the exception of the three years spent there, and the time at the front, his life has been passed in Hinsdate and Wincheser, but for many years entirely the Hinsdate.

in Hinsdale.

In 1870 he entered into partnership with his brother, the late N. M. Worden, carrying on a soap business until the brother's death, which took place Dec. 15, 1901. The brothers also occupied the whole ground floor in Todd's block, where their large store had a department each for hardware, drugs, jewelry, books, periodicals, newspapers, etc. This busi-ness was also discontinued after the eath of the senior partner.

Mr. Worden was a member of Golden Rule lodge, A. F. & A. M., a Knight Templar, a member of Unity lodge, I. O. O. F., and Sherldan post, G. A. R., also of the Mystle Shrine. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Mary Snow of this town. Several years after her death he married Miss Helen Hunt, by whom he is survived. There is also one sister, Mrs. Diantha Converse of Chicopee Falls. Mass. Mr. Worden was of a genily and a good neighbor. His circle of acquaintances was large, and he will be greatly missed by many.

The funeral was held at the house Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and was in charge of the Masons. Rev. W. H. In charge of the Masons Rev. H. Metcalf, Mrs. Higgins's daughter, Some money and several gifts were left as reminders of a pleasant occasion. Mrs. Higgins has spent her entire life in Hinsdale and it seemed fitting to turn aside briefly from the hurry and bustle of our every day life to take notice of a rather unusual occurence. A good-sized audience greeted "Neighhor Jackwood" at the opera house last week Thursday evening. The play was presented by local talent, with one ex-ception, Fred D. Lesure of Winchester taking the part of Neighbor Jackwood. Much hard and faithful work had been put into the preparation and all had their costs, thoroughly in hand. It would be parts thoroughly in hand. It would be when the performers are all citizens of the town, more interest is aroused than if of equal merit, and all strangers. The Little End of It.

There are many stories told of the Queen of Italy's acts of kindness to her poor subjects. The following, however, shows that even the good intentions of queens are not always fulfilled. Her majesty recently noticed a pleasant faced little girl and spoke to her. There was a short conversation and the Queen asked the child what she could do in the way of needlework.

"I can knit stockings, signora," replied "Do you know who I am?" continued

"Well, then, make me a pair of stock-ings and send them to the palace." A few days afterward the articles arrived, and the Queen, in return for the gift, sent the child a beautiful pair of slik stockings, one filled with sweets, the other containing money. Next day the Queen received a letter from her little friend, as follows:

"Signora, your gift has caused me many tears. My father took the money, my big brother took the sweets, and as for the stockings, way, mother took them for herself.—[Tit-Bits.

FOUR CENTS MORE FOR NO. 1 CREAM THAN FOR NO. 2

The creameries of the country have become so convinced of the increased value of thick cream over thin cream that many of them are paying a premium on cream containing 30 per cent or more butter fat over that containing under

One of the largest buyers of cream in the West, the Hanford Produce Co., of Sioux City, Iowa, issued in January the following statement to its cream shippers.
"We are going to offer a premium of 4 cents per pound butterfat for what we term No. 1 cream. at we term No. 1 cream.

which is delivered at least twice a week in winter and three times per week in summer, this cream to be delivered reasonably sweet and testing 30 per SECOND GRADE cream shall consist of all hand separator cream delivered in good condition not less than once a week or testing less than 30 per cent."

Under these conditions creamery patrons should buy only the cream separator that can skim a heavy cream. The can skim a heavier cream than any other and do it without clogging. The U, S. has the record of skimming a cream testing 65 per cent. And remember also that the U, S. holds the World's Record for clean skimming. It gets the most cream and will deliver as heavy a cream as you want,

Write for copy of our fine, new, 1906 separator catalogue. It tells why the U. S. can skim the tirst grade cream; how it made the World's Record for clean skimming and many other things you should know before you put any money into a cream separator. Write for a copy today—do it now while you think of it. Ask for catalogue No. 400 and we'll send it quick.

We probably have a selling agent in your vicinity, and if so, will give you his name when we send you the catalogue. It is his business to show you a U. S. Separator if you want to see one.

THE SCHOOL CITY.

Workings of a New Experiment in the Self Government of the Young.

The writer was present a few weeks ago when the first school city was organ-ized in Boston by Wilson L. Gill, the in-ventor and founder of the system. There were 700 pupils, all girls of the grammar grades. They were delighted with the thereto, hereby give notice that we will meet grades. They were delighted with the plan, voted unanimously and enthusinstically to adopt the Golden rule as the fundamental law of their school city, supplemented it with various provisions against disorder, destruction or injury of property, profanity, rudeness, unkindness, etc., and showed remarkable discretion in the election of their officers.

The mayor was a bright faced girl of 124 years. When asked, shortly after the election, what it meant to her to be mayor of Hancock school, she said: "it means to see that every girl is orderly, clean and

In fact, there is more real self government in these school cities than in most of our large cities. For there is no the school city, no stay-at-There is no graft in the school city, no boodle on the council, no "understanding" between the police and wrongdoers. The 10-year-old judge and the 12-year-old mayor are absolutely incorruptible. Habits of good citizenship are formed while the mind is plastic, open to the full force of considerations of right and justice and free from commercial motives and other influences that in later life so often in-terfere with the duties of citizenship. The love of liberty is strengthened and ennobled by recognition of the rights of others and the necessity of mutual limitations for the public good. Respect for law and authority is developed. The sense of justice is strengthened and the judicial attitude of mind is cultivated. The results have been excellent in every way. Both conduct and scholarship are greatly improved. Disobedience is pulled up by the roots. Public sentiment ranges itself on the side of law when the public makes the law. A breach of order is no longer regarded as a defiance of an alien government, but as an injury and an insult to the community. Even the most disorderly schools have been reduced to good conduct by the institution of the chool city .- [Frank Parsons in the Cen-

What is the Northwest Passage?

This Northwest Passage may be briefly This Northwest Passage may be briefly explained. The long coasts of the main-land are not clogged, like those on many other polar shores, with feebergs or ginciers or thick sea ice. The coast is low, the tundra behind it is only a little low, the tundra behind it is only a little higher than the sea, and conditions are not favorable for the formation and flow of glaciers. Icebergs, therefore, are not found, because in the Arctic they are merely the broken-off ends of glaciers. But from 30 to 40 miles north of Point Barrow, the most modern point of the continent, stretches the great barrier of sea ice, with hummocks and ridges thrust, by pressure, from 20 to 50 feet above the seneral level, so that when McClure's reneral level, so that when McClure's nvestigator got into the heavy floe the ce sometimes rose around her as high as the yardarms. As no islands intervene for hundreds of miles east of Bering sea to protect the coast from the polar pack, why is it that this heavy ice is not forced lown upon the shores?

It is because the coastal waters are omparatively shallow and the sea

grounds miles away; and farther east the coasts of the mainland are protected from the sea ice, not only by shallow water, but also by the islands that extend almost continuously from Banks Land to the Atlantic end of the Hudson strait. the Atlantic end of the Hudson strait. So the ice along the coast is of the winter's formation, and in summer it disappears entirely or is so narrowed by meiting as to leave channels of greater or less width that are navigable for two or three months. The fact is, as Lieutenant Wheeler, of our revenue cutter service, recently said, this Northwest Passage has been made time and time again by the overlapping of the tracks of vessels between the Atlantic and the Pacific, San Francisco whalers have already pushed far eastward beyond the Mackenzie delta and the mouth of the Coppermine river. Collinson, during the Coppermine river. Collinson, during the Franklin search, took his vessel eastward through these channels almost to the very waters from which the Gioa started last summer, and a short sledge journey farther east brought him within sight of King William Land, but he little dreamed that the bodies of many of the men he was seeking were scattered along its shores.

Railroads in France have no chance to curry favor with deputies and senators by handing out free passes. Every legislator has an annual pass on every railroad under the law. The government deducts a small sum from the pay of the members for the pass, but the railways get nothing. It is also the law that the president of France rides free on all railroads and the privilege entails no kind of obligation on his part toward the railroads. Why isn't this a good law for the United nortance. Mineral resources have been found along the northern edge of Canada, and some day they will be developed. This water route is by no means ideal, but, to some extent, it will facilitate the operations of miners and whalers.—[Review of Reviews.
